THE THREE VISITORS

by Yehuda Klein

This week was the holy Reb Yissochor Dov, the 3rd Belzer Rebbes yartzheit. His grandfather used to tell the holy Rebbe of Kominka the reason behind a trip that Reb Meilech made to see Reb Shmelke of Nikolsberg. Once the three Avos, Avraham, Yitzchok and Yaakov visited Reb Meilech. He asked them how this coming year would fare. They answered him that all the prayers of the past had been accepted for good, more than in previous years. The next year they came again, but this time they said the opposite: none of the prayers were able to ascend properly. If not for the four pillars of the world, the world would not have been able to continue existing. When Reb Meilech asked them to reveal the identity of these four pillars, they told him one of these four was Reb Shmelke of Nikolsberg. Reb Meilech then traveled to Nikolsberg to see the Rebbe. When he arrived at Reb Shmelke's door unannounced, Reb Shmelke ran toward Reb Meilech and said to him, who are the other three!?

FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL HALLWAYS

Interview with student Avraham Fischer (junior)

FW: Hey Avraham! Describe the high school using a food.

AF: Sam's.

FW: Interesting choice. Why?

AF: Because I said so (high school dab)

FW: Gotcha. What's been your highlight this past week?

AF: The ravens getting that win (high school dab)

FW: Wow thanks for coming Avraham!

IN THE CORNER

With Rabbi Frydman

How many Fischer's boys does it take to change a lightbulb? None! It never goes out!

Also 8 eggs per guy, please

Shoutout to Eliezer for totally hooking up Yitzchak with Rivka!

FISCHER'S KINDERGARTEN

By Alex The Anonymous Author

Pictured above is the rav himself (with hat) with alumni Shlomo Simpser (Far left) and Yosef "The Bal Shem Tov" Weiss. Along with the newest members of Fishers Kindergarten

I had the honor of visiting Rabbi Fishers KinderGarden with my son Zisseleh who is 3 years old. Right of the bat we were warmly greeted by Rabbi Tzvi Sklar. After a couple of discussions on how my Zisseleh has to start taking his life seriously and start to think about marriage, we quickly realized we were in the wrong Yeshivah. So I asked a rabbi there, Reb Simchah Rabba, what path I should take to get to the kindergarten and he replied with excitement, "Don't follow someone else's path, create your own path!!!" So Zisseleh and I quickly got out of there and I had to "dig deep" into my emotions to find the place. We entered the Gan and sat down with Rabbi Fischer and asked what this place is about. "Fischers KinderGarden is probably the greatest choice for your son", he said. "We have great food, זמן טוב, and authentic sustainable happiness let alone emotional health comes from a lack of" "RABBI!!!" Zisseleh interrupted. "I'm hooked please tell me more". "In this yeshivah," Rabbi continued, "there are no years we range from ages 1 thru 22. You look at a guy like Nosson Moerman..Yeah Nosson." I turn around and The Great Nosson Moerman ran in & hi-fived the Rabbi and ran out. "Rabbi what's the mehalech in the KinderGarden" I asked. "In my bais medrash yeshivah I like to tell the guys to smash their rearview mirrors. Here in Gan I tell the kids to create your rear view mirrors. Go out do your thing." It's been 3 months now since Zisseleh has been in the KinderGarden. And now I'm seriously considering sending him to the Old City.

TO BE IN THE ROOM WHERE IT HAPPENED

Danny's 400 day celebration was quite an experience. Seeing Danny up there, 400 days strong, was very inspiring, and the speeches were amazing. I was really inspired to hear a bit about where Danny came from, because I only met him this year and I didn't really appreciate his sobriety before I heard where he came from. I gained a lot because seeing someone who was involved with drugs and went clean really shows me that I'm capable of doing it as well. I think the party helped a lot of the boys realize it's doable, and not impossible. I also loved the fact that our Yeshiva had a celebration for him and it's not a taboo topic. The fact that all the boys showed up is also amazing, because it shows that we value the real things here and celebrate the things that need to be celebrated.

Congratulations Danny!

FUEL FOR THE HEART By Akiva Koltai

It was not a mistake
It could have been on purpose
This does not take away from the reality
Are you here or are you there?
Do I have this, do I have that?
What can you wait for?
It sounds like you've already began.
Where do those fantastic moments propel us
Will I let that desire slip
Can I keep that mindset
How do I keep that mindset
Has my mind even been set?
Maybe I will keep that precious moment for a lonely night.
I have put things off
We have put "things" off
When will I turn it on
Maybe I have already
However inexplicable
My level of recognition is regarding the heat of the oven
When will you turn up the heat?
